[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

The Coushatta Affair.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 3.—Governor Kellogg has issued a proclamation offering a reward of $5,000 each for the discovery of persons implicated in the Coushatta affair. The proclamation states that facts gathered from reliable sources show that the only offense of the officials arrested at Coushatta and subsequently [illegible] near McFarland's plantation was that they were Republicans and office holders, though it was not claimed that they were not legally elected. The Governor gives a history of the trouble, stating that Frank Edgerton, Sheriff of the parish, legally summoned a posse of white and colored citizens to protect the officers of the parish in the exercise of their official duties; that this posse was overpowered by a superior force composed of members of the white league and sent to jail; that afterward they were promised freedom if the office holders would resign and leave the parish; that [illegible] was made them; they were after this bound two and two together and started for the Texas border; that when just over the parish line of [illegible] they were set upon and deliberately murdered and buried where they fell without inquest. The Governor says that 40 [illegible] of the white league of Caddo parish [illegible] and armed left Shreveport the night before the murders and rode in the direction of McFarland.

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 4.—As N. Babcock of Florin was driving a team loaded with fruit into town this morning he overtook a woman on the road who wanted to ride. At Nethercott's dairy, corner Twenty-fourth and L streets, the horses became frightened and ran down L to Twenty first street. Babcock was thrown out, but was only slightly bruised. The woman fell forward on the whiffletrees and by some means had her right foot caught and broken just below the ankle joint. She was also kicked and cut on the shin and top of the head. Her injuries were so serious that she was sent to the hospital. The injured woman, it appears, lately came up from San Francisco in search of work and gives her name as Mrs. Bowman.

Fire in Kalama.

KALAMA, Sept. 4.—A fire broke out to-day in the [illegible] portion of town in a building known as the New York Hotel, destroying it entirely. The wind was blowing from the southwest, and for a time it threatened to burn Smith's sawmill and the lumber piles adjoining, but was prevented by the energetic work of the citizens. The building was occupied as a residence by J. Thomas, who lost everything. The fire is supposed to have originated from a defective flue. Loss about $1,000. No insurance.

TELEGRAPHY

NEW INVENTIONS IN THE SCIENCE OF ELECTRICAL TRANSMISSION—FOUR MESSAGES SENT SIMULTANEOUSLY OVER ONE WIRE IN OPPOSITE DIRECTIONS.

[From the New York Times.]

Wednesday afternoon, last, at the Broadway office of the Western Union Telegraph Company, a test was made of an invention which promises to be of almost more importance to the present age than were Morse's first achievements to the people of his own time. The test resulted successfully, and it proved that four messages can be simultaneously sent on a single wire in opposite directions and with no more liability to mistake than as if an equal number of wires were used. To make the matter clear it will be necessary to look a little backward. Morse took the first step in telegraphy—and the first is always the greatest—by the invention of a system by which messages could be sent between any two terminal points and dropped at any way station on the circuit. The objection to this system was that the transmission of a single message occupied a wire entirely. And though electricians were convinced that a different result could be attained, no one showed how it could be done until so recently as three years ago, when Mr J. B. Stearns invented the duplex apparatus. That was the second great step, and it instantly doubled the capacity of every wire which ever had been erected. By the Stearns process two messages can be sent simultaneously on a single wire in opposite directions between any two terminal points. But this system, like the Morse, had its objection—the message could not be dropped at any way station except by the use of a repeater. Nevertheless the invention was recognized as of immense practical importance throughout the world. Two days ago was taken a third great step, and one not inferior to either of the others. It needs only to be said of it, to recommend it to the [illegible] that in one instant it will quadruple the usefulness of the 175,000 miles of wire owned by the Western Union Telegraph Company. It is a new process of multiple transmission by which two messages can be dropped at any way station on the circuit. Nor is this all. The old duplex system can be applied to the new invention, and by the combination four messages can be sent simultaneously over the same wire in opposite directions between any two terminal points. And not the least recommendation of the discovery is that it calls for no changes: the old Morse key is used without the need of any new class of operators (as in the automatic telegraph) and with no duplication except as to parts of machinery. The invention is the result of the joint labors of Messrs. George B. Prescott and Thomas A. Edison. And if not scientifically at least practically a great deal of credit is also due to the enterprising policy of Mr. Wm. Orton, the President of the company. Of course it is needless to add that the new system will be speedily put in practice by the Western Union Company, by whom the patent is controlled. It will make itself felt in more ways than one. For instance, the Western Union Telegraph Company have been forced to erect 60,000 miles of wire during the last three years, and of course at an immense expense. An indefinite future like that could not be very satisfactory to stockholders. But this year scarcely 2,000 miles need be erected, and every wire is practically four. But without further enlargement, and almost in the words of Mr. Orton, the discovery may be called the solution of all difficulties in the future of telegraphic science.

A DEEP HOLE IN THE GROUND.—The deepest mine in Cornwall is Dolcoath, now about 720 yards from the surface. The workmen descend and ascend by means of man engines, and Captain Josiah Thomas, the manager, as an illustration of the healthy condition of the workings, states that one man has been working in the mine for forty years. During all that time he has lived at Connor Downs, a distance of five miles from the mine, so that he has been walking ten miles per day in addition to his labor, and a calculation which Captain Thomas has made shows that this man has during his forty years work walked 120,000 miles, which is equal to a journey five times round the earth, or half the distance to the moon.

BRIGHAM YOUNG

THE OLD SINNER'S IDEA OF POLYGAMIC MARRIAGES

Brigham Young, as is well known, was some time ago sued by his XIXth wife, who in her bill of complaint alleges that she and defendant were married on the 6th of April, 1868; that defendant is worth several millions of dollars and that his income is $40,000 per month, or more; that he has wilfully neglected plaintiff and subjected her to great indignities and hardship, and has refused to furnish her with food and clothing except of the coarsest and most meager fare and clothing wholly unsuitable to her position and station; that he compelled her [illegible] to remain on a farm four miles from Salt Lake City, where she had to perform the most menial service to gain a mere subsistence; that while she was on said farm she was not allowed any companions except her aged mother, who was also made to leave because she became infirm and unable to work; and that defendant did a great many other naughty things and left undone many other things which his marital relations made it his duty to do, on account of which plaintiff asks for a judgment of divorce and $20,000 attorney fees, $1,000 per month during the pendency of the suit, and for alimony in the sum of $200,000 and costs.

A part of Brigham's answer to the complaint we give below, from which it seems that the great Mormon does not consider all his wives as on the same footing. This document the Salt Lake Tribune, a Gentile paper, thinks a death-blow to polygamy. Here it is:

In the District Court, Third Judicial District of the Territory of Utah, county of Salt Lake. Ann Eliza Young, by her next friend, George R. Maxwell, plaintiff, vs. Brigham Young, defendant. Answer.

Now comes the said defendant, Brigham Young, and for answer to the bill of complaint of the said Ann Eliza Young, plaintiff,

DENIES HIS MARRIAGE WITH ANN ELIZA.

That on the 6th day of April, 1868, at the county of Salt Lake, Utah Territory, or at any other time or place, this defendant and the said plaintiff intermarried, or that since that time or at any time the said plaintiff has been, or that she now is, the wife of this defendant. For this defendant on information and belief alleges that before that time, to-wit: On the 10th day of April, 1863, at Salt Lake City, Utah Territory, the said plaintiff was married to one James L. Dee, who is still living, and that ever since the said 10th day of April, 1863, the said plaintiff has been, and on the said 6th day of April, 1868, was and still is the lawful wife of the said James L. Dee, never as this defendant is now advised and believes having been divorced from the said James L. Dee. But this defendant further says that on the 6th day of April, 1868, and at the time of the ceremony hereinafter referred to, he was informed and then verily believed that the plaintiff had prior to that time been legally divorced from the said James L. Dee.

SAYS HE HAS BUT ONE WIFE.

And the defendant further answering alleges that at the town of Kirtland, in the State of Ohio, on the 10th day of January, A. D. 1834, this defendant being then an unmarried man, was duly and lawfully married to Mary Ann Angell, by a minister of the Gospel, who was then and there, by the laws of said State, authorized to solemnize marriage.

And that the said marriage was then and there fully consummated, and that the said Mary Ann Angell, who is still living, then and there became and ever since has been and still is the lawful wife of this defendant, all of which said facts the said complainant on the said 6th day of April, 1868, and for a long time prior thereto had full knowledge and information.

THE TWIN RELIC.

But defendant says that he and the said complainant were on the 6th day of April, 1868, members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter day Saints, and that it was a doctrine and belief of said Church that members thereof might rightfully enter into plural or celestial marriages.

The defendant admits that on the 6th day of April, 1868, at Salt Lake City, Utah Territory, in accordance with and pursuant to the said doctrine, custom and belief of the said Church, a ceremony was performed to unite the plaintiff and defendant in what is known as such plural or celestial marriage, the said first wife of this defendant being then living and undivorced, as plaintiff then and there well knew. But defendant denies that on the said 6th day of April, or at any other time, he and the said plaintiff intermarried in any other or different sense or manner than that above admitted and set forth. Defendant further alleges that the said complainant was then informed by the defendant, and then and there well knew, that by reason of said marriage in the manner aforesaid she could not have and need not expect the society or personal attention of this defendant as in the ordinary relation between husband and wife.

Defendant denies that about a year after the said alleged marriage with plaintiff, or at any other time, defendant commenced or practiced toward the said plaintiff a systematic or any course of neglect or unkindness or cruel or inhuman treatment, or that at the same time defendant commenced or practiced towards the said plaintiff a systematic or any course of neglect or unkindness or cruel or inhuman treatment ending in an absolute desertion of her or otherwise.

After specific denials of various allegations in the complaint the answer further denies as follows:

Defendant denies that by reason or in consequence of any act or acts of defendant, or of any treatment or neglect of plaintiff by defendant, either in the nature of the pretended cruel or inhuman treatment in the complaint set forth, or for any neglect, bad, cruel or inhuman treatment of any kind whatsoever, the said plaintiff and defendant cannot live in peace and union together, or that by reason and in consequence thereof their mutual welfare, or the welfare of either of them, requires a separation.

Defendant denies on information and belief that the sum of twenty thousand dollars or any sum whatever would be a reasonable or proper fee for the plaintiff's solicitors and counsel in asserting her pretended legal or equitable rights growing out of said alleged marriage.

Defendant denies that one thousand dollars or any other sum exceeding one hundred dollars per month would be a reasonable allowance to the plaintiff, even if defendant was under any legal obligation to provide for the maintenance, education and proper medical attendance of said plaintiff and her children during his litigation.

REDUCED TO BEGGARY.

Defendant denies that he is or has been the owner of wealth amounting to several millions of dollars, or that he is or has been in the monthly receipt from his property of forty thousand dollars or more. On the contrary, defendant alleges that according to his best knowledge, information and belief, all his property taken together does not exceed in value the sum of six hundred thousand dollars, and that his gross income from all of his property and every source does not exceed six thousand dollars per month.

Defendant further says that at the time of the said alleged marriage this defendant had and still has a very large family; that his said family now consists of sixty three —— persons, all of whom are dependent upon this defendant for maintenance and support.

Wherefore the defendant prays judgment of the Court that he be hence dismissed with his costs herein.

THE INDEPENDENT PARTY OF WASHINGTON TERRITORY

THE WALLA WALLA COUNTY INDEPENDENT CONVENTION—PLATFORM ADOPTED.

(From the Walla Walla Statesman, Aug. 31.)

In pursuance to the call published in the Statesman the Independent Convention met in this city on Saturday last. The attendance was much larger than had been anticipated, every portion of the county being represented. Long before the hour of meeting the court room was crowded with delegates and those interested in the success of the movement, the number present being estimated at several hundred, and many who were unable to secure admittance to the room crowded the sidewalks adjacent to the Court House. The scene thus presented gave the city a very animated appearance, and the character and standing of the men who took part in the proceedings of the Convention clearly demonstrated that the people are in earnest and that the days of ring rule and corrupt and incompetent officials are numbered in Walla Walla county.

The Convention was called to order by the election of R. P. Olds temporary Chairman and T. O. Porter Secretary.

On motion of W. T. Barnes a Committee on Credentials consisting of Messrs. Barnes, Stewart, Storms and Glassford were appointed.

* * * * *

PLATFORM.

On reassembling William H. Newell from the Committee on Resolutions submitted the following, which were adopted unanimously—many of the resolutions and especially the one referring to the Seattle road being greeted with cheers:

1. That the corruptions and abuses of existing political parties renders it necessary that the friends of honest government, without regard to past differences, should unite together for the purpose of correcting abuses and inaugurating reform and economy in all branches of the public service.

2. That the low price of grain and the depressed condition of all branches of trade impresses upon us the necessity of providing improved means of transportation, and to that end we favor the bill now before Congress authorizing county subscriptions in aid of the Seattle and Walla Walla Railroad.

3. That recognizing the Columbia river as a great natural channel of commerce, we hold that it is the duty of Congress to make appropriations for the purpose of removing obstructions in the way of navigation at the Dalles and Cascades; that the removal of these obstructions will emancipate the people of Eastern Oregon and Washington from the thraldom of a monopoly that crushes every enterprise and retards the development of the country.

4. That we are in favor of rigid economy in the conduct of Territorial and county affairs, and to that end we demand a reduction of the present exorbitant fees, and further, that we severely reprobate and denounce the action of the last Territorial Legislature in fastening upon the people of Walla Walla county what is known as the "salary swindle."

5. That we favor the passage of a law restricting the Auditor of Walla Walla county to a salary not to exceed $1,500 per annum, and further that said Auditor be required to collect and pay into the County Treasury monthly all fees that the law may provide.

6. That the pay now provided by law for the Treasurer of Walla Walla county is extravagant, and that we demand a reduction in the compensation of this officer to a sum not exceeding $600 per annum.

7. That the fees of the Sheriff, Justices of the Peace, Constables and other feed officers should be reduced at least one half less than existing rates.

8. That the candidates nominated to represent this county in the Legislature be and they are hereby instructed to procure the passage of a law regulating fares and freights on all railroads and steamboat lines within the limits of Washington Territory, and more especially to fix the rates of charges at the different portages on the Columbia river.

9. That having full confidence in the justice of our cause, and appealing to Heaven for the rectitude of our intentions, we invite good men of all parties to unite with us in an earnest effort to overthrow the corrupt rings that have too long ruled the county and Territory, and that emulating the patriotism of our fathers, we are determined from this day henceforth to proscribe rascality and vote for none but honest men to hold office.

Mr. W. F. Kimball introduced the following resolution:

Resolved, That we favor the nomination of a candidate for Delegate to Congress who resides east of the Cascade range—a man who is thoroughly identified with our interests and imbued with the spirit of the resolutions adopted; and that our delegates to the Independent Territorial Convention be and they are hereby instructed to carry out the purpose of this resolution.

Mr. Kimball's resolution was adopted without a dissenting voice.

On motion of J. C. Smith, an Executive Committee, consisting of Wm. Harkness, J. C. Smith, Wm. H. Newell, W. T. Barnes and W. I. Mayfield, was appointed. The Committee was requested to correspond with other counties and perfect the organization of the Independent party of the Territory.

The Convention then proceeded to the election of six delegates to the Territorial Convention, resulting in the choice of the following gentlemen: Thomas Page, Smith Gilliam, Mark Evans, O. T. Porter, Berry Evans and D. Stewart.

Vancouver was selected and Friday, September 25th, fixed as the time for holding the Territorial Convention.

Mark Evans introduced the following, which was adopted:

Resolved, That the Executive Committee be directed to prepare an address to the voters of Walla Walla county, requesting them to meet in primary meeting to select delegates to a County Convention to nominate a county ticket, to be held in Walla Walla on Saturday, September 26th.

On motion the Convention adjourned sine die.

MUSIC BY TELEGRAPH

About two months ago Mr. Elisha Gray, of Chicago, a gentleman well known in the electric telegraph world as a maker and inventor of some of the most valuable instruments now in use, conceived an idea which would be an extraordinary development of telegraphic science if he could only succeed in practically demonstrating it. Short as has been the lapse of time since he first began his experiments, he has succeeded almost beyond his own anticipations in perfecting an instrument which will convey sound by electricity over an unbroken current of extraordinary length—that is, without the aid of automatic repeaters. In the ordinary transmission of messages over the telegraph wires to points at long distances a message is generally repeated by automatic working instruments about every 500 miles, in order to renew the current of electricity. Mr. Gray has already transmitted sounds which are distinctly audible at the receiving point over an unbroken circuit of 2,400 miles. This is more properly speaking a discovery—not an invention. The invention merely consists in adapting certain appliances to the discovery for the purposes of its practical illustration. It is one of the greatest discoveries made since the early days of Morse. Such noted electricians as Mr. George Prescott say this discovery of Mr. Gray only goes to prove what all electricians have long agreed upon, that we know little at present of the possibilities of the electric science. Mr. Chandler says that he regards it as the first step toward doing away with manipulating instruments altogether, and that he believes that in time the operators will transmit the sound of their own voice over the wires and talk with one another instead of telegraphing. The writer has seen this novel instrument at work, and has heard music played on a small melodeon or piano key board transmitted through an unbroken circuit of 2,400 miles and reproduced on a violin attached to the receiving end of the wire. Mr. Gray played Hail Columbia, The Star Spangled Banner, God Save the Queen, Yankee Doodle and other well known airs, and they were unmistakably repeated note for note on the violin, which lay on a table near at hand. Even an accidental false note was immediately detected on the violin. Mr. Gray exhibited many other experiments with tin cans, small paper drums, etc., which were attached to the receiving end of the wire in the place of the violin. The paper drum gave to the musical sounds just that peculiar buzzing twang which is produced by boys placing a piece of thin paper over a hair comb and then blowing on it. What this will all lead to, or where it will all end, is one of the most extraordinary problems of the day.

The apparatus by means of which this extraordinary feat in telegraphy is accomplished has been named by Mr. Gray the telephone, or an instrument designed for the purpose of transmitting sound to a distance. It consists of three general parts: first, the transmitting instrument; second, the conducting wire running to a distant point; and third, the apparatus for receiving the sound at that distant point. The transmitting apparatus consists of a key board having a number of electro-magnets corresponding with the number of keys on the board, to which are attached vibrating tongues or reeds, tuned to a musical scale. Any one of these tongues can be separately set in motion by depressing the key corresponding to it. Thus a tune may be played by manipulating the keys in the same way as those of an ordinary piano or melodeon. The music produced entirely by electricity of these notes is so distinctly audible in the next room that in spite of much talking there is no difficulty in determining what tune the manipulator is playing. To this transmitting instrument the conducting wire is attached, the other end being attached to the receiving apparatus, which may be anything that is sonorous so long as it is in some degree a conductor of electricity. A violin with a thin strip of metal stretched between the strings at a point where the bridge of the instrument is ordinarily placed will on receiving the sound transmitted through the conducting wire from the piano, give out a tone very similar in quality to that of an ordinary violin. If then the metallic strip is electrically connected with a wire say five hundred or a thousand miles long, which has its distant end properly connected with the transmitting instrument, any one at the receiving end can distinctly hear, without the aid of electro-magnetism, the tune or air which is being played 500 or 1,000 miles away, if he properly manipulate the receiving apparatus. The length of the wire connecting the transmitting with the receiving apparatus may be one mile or 10,000 miles, provided that the insulation is sufficiently good to prevent the escape of the electric current before it reaches its destination. In fact there seems to be no limit to the distance to which sound, of any desired pitch, may be thus conveyed with from two to five cells of battery, all the conditions being proper. The quality or timbre of the tones depends upon the character of the receiving apparatus, which may be a violin prepared as described above, a tin hoop, with foil paper heads stretched over it after the fashion of a baby's rattle, a nickel five-cent piece, an old oyster can and a thousand other things. A sound sufficiently loud to read Morse telegraphic characters, made by interrupting with the common telegraphic key, one sustained note has been obtained, under favorable circumstances, at the receiving end of the wire without any more scientific sounding apparatus than that of a piece of common tissue paper.

Aside from the intense interest which this discovery will naturally excite in the scientific world—as to the causes which produce this extraordinary electro physiological phenomenon and the gratification it will afford to all lovers of the marvelous—it is evident that, although the practical uses to which it may be put cannot as yet be recited quite enough, it has been demonstrated to show that, from its basis a new system of telegraphy, both for aerial and submarine lines, of a simple, rapid and economical character, can be introduced. Mr. Gray has applied for patents of his invention in this country and in all the countries of Europe.

PLAYING DRAW POKER WITH THREE HANDS.—Officer Joe Norris arrested two men named John Reed and William J. Doyle, who engaged in a game of draw poker in company with a third party named May, at a saloon on Fourth street. The appearance of the two former betrayed them to the suspicion of the officer. On investigating the antecedents of the gentlemen he found that they had just beaten May out of the round sum of $1,000. They were brought to the Four Courts and searched. On the person of Norris, sewed in the lining of his coat on the left side, was found a mysterious machine, connecting by means of a string running down the leg on the inside of the pants with the left boot. Attached to the boot was a hook as a fastening for the string, made of hollow spring wire, another small string of the ordinary hempen kind being received in the hollow of the wire and acting upon the inner portion of the machine according to the movement of the foot. The machine itself is of the most ingenious device. It consists of two thin steel plates, with work resembling the internal organism of a clock. It acts nearly on the principal of a paper fastener. The mouth fronts on the outer edge of the coat. The coat is thrown half open so that the right hand, in holding up the cards, is brought in close proximity with his mouth. When the player desires to secure an ace he brings both hands up close to the breast, and by extending the left leg the action of the cord opens the mouth of the machine. The card is then slipped in and a receiver on the inside is drawn forward and drags or sucks it in still further. So on until the best hand is secured. By winding the thing up it is made to eject the cards thus brought in, thereby enabling the player to execute his motions almost imperceptibly.—St. Louis Times.

TOUGH BUT TRUE.—The grasshopper is not as big as a thousand other things we can name, but then the insect has as much devilment in its carcass as was ever contained in the same space in anything that ever lived or breathed. Stories have been published of how they completely blockaded railroads out West, but they were looked upon as a fanciful production existing only in the imagination of the reporter. And still these stories were not imaginary. On Wednesday train No. 7 of the St. Joseph and Denver railroad struck the grasshoppers between Axtel and Beattie. The insects covered the track two inches thick, and the engineer was completely at his wit's end to know what to do. He understood a souped track, but a track covered with grasshoppers was a novelty. He put on all the steam he could and tried to drive ahead, and yet he was actually nine hours making eleven miles. How many grasshoppers were killed no one will ever undertake to say. Yesterday morning conductor Scott Sharp pulled out of Seneca on time, and thought he would have an easy run to St. Joseph. In this he was slightly mistaken. Two miles out the track was completely blockaded by grasshoppers, and the engineer found it impossible to proceed. He hated to be beat out by such trifling insects, but finally had to run back to Seneca and wait until the insects had crossed the track on their way southward. These stories look a little tough, but they are true.—St. Joseph Mo., Herald.

Court adjourned until Friday morning at 9 o'clock.

OREGON

Albany had a $60 fire on the 2d inst.

There are 185 Notaries Public in Oregon.

Salem has another policeman, making two in all.

There are 62 Commissioners of Deeds for Oregon in the United States.

McMinnville Hook and Ladder Company have ordered a new bell from San Francisco, which is expected to arrive on the steamer next week.

Last Friday Mr. Daniel Miller, an old resident of Linn county, sold his elegant little farm adjoining Tangent, containing a fraction over 106 acres, for $4,000.

R. C. & Cal. Geer thrashed 1,048 bushels of oats from the shock on the fruit farm, Marion county, with an eight horse Pitt's Challenger in five hours and thirty minutes.

A seven year old daughter of Squire Duncan, who lives about eight miles from Albany, near Peterson's Butte, received a severe fall on the 28th ult., breaking one of her arms between the wrist and elbow.

Hon. I. R. Moores and R. P. Earhart have been out on a week's hunt in the Umpqua country. The former brought in a blue-jay and the other a good sized chipmunk. Fine country to hunt in, that!

We learn that a young Yamhill farmer finished up his thrashing last Saturday—or rather sent the headers and thrashers away from his place, and then discovered that he had entirely forgotten one field of wheat. So he will have it all to do over again.

Mathew MacDonald was arrested Wednesday in Gervais charged with indecent exposure of his person. He was fined $50 by T. D. Taylor, Esq., before whom he was brought. Not having the scads he was taken to Salem and confined in the county jail.

On the 2d inst. Mr. Sullivan set fire to some brush on his place two miles east of Jefferson, which spread to his wheat field, and burned some 16 acres of wheat. The fire also came near destroying Mr. Phelps' barn, but by the exertions of neighbors it (the barn) was saved.

Messrs. Williamson & Co., of Linn county, received from New York two patent flax breaking machines, which they will use in preparing their present crop for market. The machines are the latest improvements, and cost in New York $600 each. Some of the flax raised by W. & Co. this year produced fibre five feet in length.

The Directors of the Alden Fruit Preserving Company have purchased one entire block in the University Addition to the city of Salem for erecting thereupon the buildings required for the use of the company. The ground selected lies immediately in the rear of the University building, on the street leading to the depot. The lumber of the main building (32 by 40 feet) has been ordered from the mill, and steps will be taken to commence the building as soon as the evaporators arrive.

About one year ago there was a debt on the M. E. Church property at Albany of $2,456. To meet this indebtedness, five lots which belonged to the society were sold, bringing $1,050, and a subscription raised on condition that a sufficient amount be secured to meet all claims on the church property by the 1st of September, 1874. On Sept. 1st the amount of the subscription was $1,462 75. This added to the $1,050 received for the lots makes a total of $2,512 75. So when the subscriptions are paid the debt will be cancelled.

Rev. A. C. McDougall reorganized McDougall Encampment of I. C. R. C. on the 2d inst. with 26 charter members. The following officers were elected: E. C., H. N. McKinney; E. Conn., Mrs. K. F. McCrary; S. C., Mrs. R. C. Shepherd; Sec., W. Caldwell; F. C., B. M. Boynton; Treas., Mrs. L. Bunnell; C. of H., C. L. Palmer; J. C., Miss Lulu B. Shepherd; O. G., M. B. McCrary; Chap., G. J. Bowman; 1s. L., Miss Kate Carter; M. C., Miss I. Cleaver; R. S., J. W. Jett; Vic., L. O. Nelson; C. R. C., Miss Kate M. Bowman; Imp., Mrs. Kate Yantis; 1st G., F. P. Palmer.

During a storm the lightning struck one of the stove flues of the Court House in Canyon City, passing down the pipe, thence down the two front feet of the stove, sweeping the sawdust that lay in front of the stove clean from the floor and scattering it promiscuously over benches and table, and, strange to say, without doing any damage. About this time an unfortunate Celestial, who was confined in the county jail for passing off bogus gold dust for that of a bona fide article, made his escape. The query is, did the lightning from Heaven unbar the prison doors and let the captive free?

The Statesman tells of a man who arrived in our State something over a year ago and was so much pleased with Oregon that he immediately began looking around for a location, finally purchasing a fine farm a few miles out of town, when he returned to his Eastern home for his family. On his arrival here the second time he settled down to begin life in his new home, but in three or four months became so homesick that he rented his farm and returned with his family to the States. In a letter written to a friend in this city a short time since, telling how things look about his old home, he says the grasshoppers have eaten up every green thing in the country except himself, and he was the greenest thing there. That man will be in Oregon again in a year.

The burglars and thieves have been operating quite extensively about McMinnville recently, and the mischief was generally laid to St. Clair, an escaped jail bird from Portland. But since St. Clair was captured, the business seems to have fallen into the hands of others, who carry it on quite as successfully as he did. A few evenings since Mr. J. J. Henderson, of that place, had a slight adventure with some rascal who came into his house about midnight with a gunnysack over his head. Mr. H. suspicioned that his house had been visited by somebody once or twice before, and this night he watched for the intruder with a loaded revolver. About 11 o'clock he heard somebody in the house, and stepping into the hall he saw a man standing within a few feet of him. He spoke to the stranger, and receiving no response fired at him with his revolver. By this time the would be burglar was making for a window, through which he made his escape, closely followed by Mr. Henderson, who fired another shot at him, but did not succeed in stopping him. Mr. H. is certain that his first shot in the hall hit the man, for there is no mark of the bullet to be found in the hall.

No. 3[illegible] MONTGO[illegible] BLOCK,

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

W. H. AIKEN, ATTORNEY AT LAW AND Commander of the Grand Army of the Republic in California and Nevada, will give attention to the collection of Additional Travel Pay, now due California and Nevada Volunteers discharged more than three hundred miles from home. Soldiers can depend on fair dealing. Information given free of charge. When writing enclose stamp for reply and state company and regiment and whether you have a discharge. Congress has extended the time for filing claims for additional Bounty under Act of July 28, 1866 to January 1875, so all such claims must be made before that time. Original Bounty of $100 has been allowed all volunteers who enlisted before July 22d, 1861, for three years if not paid the same when discharged. Land Warrants can be obtained for services rendered before 1855, but not for services in the late war. Pensions for late war and war of 1812 obtained and increased when allowed for less than disability warrants, but no pensions are allowed to Mexican and Florida war soldiers. State of Texas has granted Pensions to surviving veterans of Texas Revolution. New Orleans and Mobile Prize Money is now due and being paid. W. H. Aiken also [illegible] to General Law and Collection Business.

NOTICE.

SATURDAY MORNING, SEPT. 5, 1874.

SOUND ADMONITION

The work of the Pennsylvania Republican State Convention calls to mind a bit of political history which one can review with some profit and little pleasure. It concerns the leading organ of the Reformers in that State. In 1873, when the Philadelphia Ring (as it is familiarly called), headed by the office-holders of Pennsylvania, attempted to give Judge Paxson a seat on the Supreme bench, the Philadelphia Press (Colonel John W Forney's paper) stood out against the proposed nomination. It denounced Paxson as a corrupt Judge, charged that he was in league with "one of the most nefarious rings ever organized in an American city," associated him with the election frauds which disgraced the election in that year, and vehemently protested that he was a dangerous man and an unjust Judge. Paxson's defeat, we may presume, was accomplished chiefly through the bitter warfare of the Press. The Ring withdrew its candidate after a protracted struggle, and although the Reformers were unable to nominate their man (Judge William Butler) they compelled a compromise on Judge Gordon. This year the office-holders were stronger, and at the Harrisburg Convention they succeeded by bargain and trade in again defeating Butler. Paxson was nominated.

What did the Press do? Did it again threaten to appeal to the voters of Pennsylvania upon a square issue of honesty against corruption, of fair elections against gross bribery and fraud? Not at all. The trumpet was muffled. The banners of Reform were folded and laid away. Forney himself couldn't stay in Pennsylvania to witness his humiliation. He fled the country. And now the Press not only accepts the situation but it goes to the length of commending to the suffrages of the people of Pennsylvania a man who, a brief twelvemonth ago, was the archfiend of a corrupt and [illegible] Ring. This is reform, with a vengeance.

Speaking to this text, the New York Tribune addresses these sensible words to the people of Pennsylvania:

> It may not be feasible to defeat the election of Judge Paxson, but the Reformers who have opposed him so fiercely are bound to vote against him if only that they may record their protest against an immoral transaction. If Reformers are to waste their strength in furious vaporings at caucus and convention, and then fall into line immediately afterwards, to work and lie and cheat for the candidate they have been denouncing as rogues, we may give up all hope of the purification of Pennsylvania until the Republican party is completely destroyed. That [illegible] be [illegible] by [illegible] who have the courage of their convictions, men who will not satisfy themselves with lamentation and remonstrance over corrupt bargains and disgraceful nominations, but will break from the ranks of their party when it asks them to do an unworthy action, and when it sets up a creature of the notorious Ring and bids them vote for him will answer boldly, No!—and will keep their word.

A few days ago the Salem Mercury was anxiously inquiring about the intentions of the Independent members of the next Legislature of this State. We have hitherto indicated as clearly as we might what seems to be the obvious duty of the Reformers in Oregon and what their relations to the old parties. The excerpt above quoted contains a reliable epitome of duties of all who honestly desire better and cheaper government. We are reasonably confident that the pledges made to the people before the election will be scrupulously fulfilled at the coming session, so far as the majority of the Independents are concerned. If their partisan associates feel disposed to join in the good work, the most unclean among them will be welcomed with shoutings and hallelujahs of praise.

THE RIGHT OF EVERY MAN TO HAVE A PARTY.

The Cincinnati Commercial holds to the vigorous sentiment that any free and independent citizen of this country has the right to invent a new party, to get up a platform of principles for it, to deliver speeches in favor of it, to hold conventions, start newspapers and plan campaigns in its interest, to get everybody into its ranks, and push it to success. It holds that his party may take any color or any shape that suits him. He may make it totally different from all other parties, actual or possible. He may even go to the extreme of naming it as freely as he would name one of his own babies, and if he can't make it go at the first trial he has the right to keep on struggling for —ever.

This is a bold doctrine, almost revolutionary, and at first sight one would consider it sensible enough. But it couldn't be made to work. If every man should vote conscientiously, for those principles only which might seem to him to be just and prudent and for those men only who are fitted to administer them wisely, there would speedily be an end to that salutary discipline which now restrains the exuberant virtue of all the office-holders who are bent on "reforms" inside the organization. The Commercial might just as well give up these visions of a political Utopia. Over [illegible] are indisputable majorities. Look at Vermont and poor Poland, butchered to make a "sorehead" holiday.

THE NEW ORGAN

There is no longer any doubt about it the New York Times has gone after the strange gods of independent journalism, and it must lose the public printing. We are informed by a Washington dispatch of August 31st, that the presses are building (or being built), and a part of the N. Y. Herald building has been leased for an office. It is said, also, that the new organ will resemble the Herald in size and style; that the capital stock is placed at $500,000 (all of which will be taken at once), and that the first number will be issued on the 14th or 21st of September proximo, with C. C Norvell, the financial editor of the Times, as principal editor, and Mr Westleigh, the original founder of the Times, as business manager. "Plenty of money is ready in the hands of the projectors of the enterprise," we are told. They will need it. If anyone wants to buy a first-class newspaper establishment, he may as well begin to scrape his eagles together. The organ is to be of the size and style of the Herald, and it will be known as The Republic. There is a political magazine of that name in Washington now devoted to the important amusing business of proving that two and two make five.

COMING FORWARD

From all parts of the State we receive the gratifying intelligence that the harvest is progressing favorably. The heavy rains which, up to within a day or two, prevailed in Multnomah county and along the lower Willamette have been succeeded by a season of rare beauty. The crops have nowhere been injured. The headers and threshers are busily at work, and the first grain of the present harvest is coming into market. The various lines of transportation will find all they can do for many weeks to come, and the fleet of vessels now lying idle at our wharves will, we trust, soon receive their cargoes. There has been considerable complaint at the backwardness of the harvest. The delay has been vexatious, but we are not yet prepared to concede that the farmers have been altogether to blame for it. Nor can we believe that by the pursuit of any such shortsighted policy as has been predicted for them by some of the more impatient buyers they will "forever drive away the shipping from our port." There is bound to be an amicable adjustment of all existing differences. We believe the dozen empty vessels over which there has been so much tribulation and a trifle of bitter feeling that ought not to be, will soon be loaded and sent upon their way rejoicing.

The Washington Chronicle of August 23 contains this queer editorial paragraph:

> The mention of General Sherman's name in connection with the Presidency is receiving considerable attention from the press, notwithstanding the General's statement that he is wholly satisfied with his present office, and he knows he would not be with the Presidency. The opinion seems to be that on a Republican ticket the name of General Sherman would command great strength, and the most enthusiastic support from the entire West; but on a Democratic ticket it would look about as bad as Horace Greeley's did, and would not meet with any more general favor.

Sagacious paper, the Chronicle! Sherman would run about as well on a Democratic as a Republican ticket. The fact is, the people of the United States do not hanker after a military chieftain for President in 1876. We hope and believe General Sherman has sense enough to recognize the situation. If the Chronicle wants a distinguished warrior for President, why, there's Gen. Butler.

Judge Poland's defeat is confirmed, and it is a crushing one. He passed the Scylla of Back Pay only to fall into the Charybdis of the Press Gag Law. He is another of numerous victims to General Butler's rabies—newspaperphobia. His martial form, clad in brilliant blue and flashing brass, will never again ape the lobby at Washington, nor shame the gorgeous trappings of the diplomatic [illegible] Herald [illegible] well.

THE TERRITORIES.

On Monday next the Grand Lodge of Good Templars for Washington Territory will convene at Port Townsend.

Capt J. G. Parker, of the steamer Alida has returned from San Francisco to Olympia. He says that the Colter matter is involved in mystery, and there is no telling as yet what will come of it.

The Ilwaco Wharf Co., of Oysterville, Pacific county, W. T., was incorporated on the 8th of July by the following persons L. A. Loomis, Robt. Caruthers, George Johnson, Abram Wing and J. H. D. Gray. The objects of the Company are the construction of a warehouse and wharf at the town of Ilwaco on Baker's Bay. Capital stock, $2,400 in shares of $25 each. The Company has already let the contract for building the wharf, and it is to be completed in October of this year. Those who visit that resort by water will find it a great convenience.

Articles of incorporation of the Dayton and Columbia River Transportation Company were filed in the office of the Secretary of Washington Territory on the 2d inst. The objects of the above corporation are to transport freight and passengers to and from Dayton in Walla Walla county, W. T., and Astoria, in Oregon; for which purpose the Company propose to build a three foot narrow gauge railroad from Dayton to some eligible point on the Snake or Columbia river; to ply steamers from the said terminal point to Astoria, except the obstructions at the Dalles and Cascades where narrow gauge railroads are to be built to connect the line of steamers above with those below the obstructions. The principal place of business is Dayton.

Ordinance No. 1536.

AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND ORDINANCE No. 1369 entitled "an Ordinance relating to certain animals and fowls and prohibiting their running at large within certain limits."

The City of Portland does ordain as follows:

Section 1. That Section 2, of Ordinance No 1369, be so amended as to read as follows:

Section 2. Between the hours of 6 A. M. and 7 P. M. of each day horses, mules or cattle may be allowed to run at large outside of the following limits. Commencing at the foot of Harrison street, thence along the south line of said street to the west line of Eighth street, thence along said west line of Eighth street to the south line of Main street, thence along the south line of Main street to the west line of Tenth street, thence along said last named line to the south line of Yamhill street; thence along said south line to the west line of Lownsdale street, thence along said line to the north line of Alder street, thence along said line to the west line of Twelfth street; thence along said last named line to the intersection thereof with the south line of B street, thence along said line to the west line of North Fifteenth street; thence along said last named line to the north line of G street; thence along the north line of G street to the Willamette river. Provided that animals taken into custody within the above described limits, while remaining in the custody of an officer on the way to the Pound, may be driven outside of said limits if necessary.

Section 2. Ordinance No 1487, entitled "An Ordinance to amend Ordinance No 1369 entitled 'An Ordinance relating to certain animals and fowls, and prohibiting their running at large within certain limits,'" is hereby repealed.

Passed the Common Council September 2, 1874.
W. S. CALDWELL, Auditor and Clerk.

Approved September 4, 1874.

SATURDAY MORNING, SEPT. 5, 1874.

CITY.

THE BARK RAMOLINO.—This [illegible], a B[illegible] bark of about 400 tons register, arrived at this port this morning, ninety-six days out from Montevideo. Her master, Capt. A. [illegible], informs us that almost during her entire voyage she had rough weather, encountering some severe gales, and meeting strong head winds for weeks in succession. In the latitude of the tropics the weather was exceedingly warm, and some sickness occurred on board, but the vessel finally reached the mouth of the Columbia in safety, where she was detained only a few hours before she was taken in tow by the tug C. J. Brenham, at Astoria, and under the piloting of Capt. Snow proceeded up the river. Capt. Hunter being wearied with his long voyage and having been assured that the [illegible] up the river was one which could be made with safety in the night time, retired to his room about 8 o'clock in the evening to obtain a little rest, leaving a man on the lookout and the pilot on the ship's house. At five minutes before ten he felt the ship strike something very heavily, and running forward saw that she had run her bow into the wharf at Rainier, tearing the wharf and buildings somewhat, and carrying the [illegible] jib-boom, forward rigging, and rails and a portion of her belongings, all of which damage will cost several hundred dollars to repair. How the accident happened, we were unable to learn definitely, as the Captain informs us that the weather was clear, the tug and vessel steering well and the night not so [illegible] but that the [illegible] river could be plainly seen from the ship's deck. If our information be correct, those in command at the time must have been asleep.

RUN INTO.—A piece of careless and reprehensible driving took place yesterday which came near resulting [illegible]. A [illegible] heavily-loaded wagon, drawn by a span of horses, and driven by a man [illegible], collided with a violent [illegible] with a fine carriage belonging to the [illegible] Dray Company. The [illegible] one [illegible] and the [illegible] driven down an incline. One side of the hack was struck with the tongue of the wagon and badly smashed up. So violent was the collision that the hack driver was thrown to the ground. Without paying any particular attention to what he had done, the wagoner turned his horses' heads in another direction, and drove off rapidly. There was no shadow of excuse for the collision, as it can be attributed to the [illegible] of the driver, who was so [illegible] that he scarcely knew what he was doing. As soon as the hack-driver [illegible] his feet and recovered from the shock, he called a policeman and went for the [illegible] driver to [illegible] vengeance. But the fellow was not too drunk to make good his [illegible] for the present. He is known, however, and will [illegible] be taken on the wing ere long. One hundred dollars at the least will be required to [illegible] the damage done the hack.

STARTED [illegible] Bishop of this Di[illegible] R. B[illegible] morning [illegible] en route for the [illegible] Episcopal Church to [illegible] the railroad [illegible] gentlemen will [illegible] Lake, at which [illegible] short time. Both [illegible] important business connected with the [illegible] Rev. Mr. Bonnel is a [illegible] these Dioceses to attend the [illegible] which will [illegible] at New York on the [illegible] October. The presence of Bishop M[illegible] is also required, he being a [illegible] of that body. Neither of these [illegible] three months. During his [illegible] Morris will deliver several [illegible] in the [illegible] cities, and will [illegible] ways to advance the interests of [illegible] young State.

OREGON AT A GERMAN FAIR.—[illegible] the Salem [illegible] says: [illegible] national Agricultural Fair was [illegible] Bremen, and the [illegible] & Co., Portland, took [illegible] of Oregon wool, flax, wheat, oats, [illegible] salmon, etc., which were exhibited and evidently attracted attention, as [illegible] a medal of gold, which the [illegible] of A. Moller & Co. [illegible] mation will be forwarded to [illegible] will afford subject for edu[illegible]. When the medal and letter come to hand it will afford subject for [illegible]. At the last State Fair Hon. M. W[illegible] county, exhibited very superior fine wools, which were much admired at the time. A similar card was [illegible] by Moller & Co., and was with the [illegible] exhibited at Bremen by them. We do not [illegible] who furnished the rest of the articles.

GOES OVERLAND.—General Jeff. C. Davis did not leave on the last steamer for San Francisco, en route for the post assigned him, as was anticipated and announced. He was not able to conclude the necessary [illegible] in time to take the steamer. [illegible] the General and his wife do not admire traveling on Neptune's dominions, and for that [illegible] for no other, have concluded to go overland to San Francisco. To-day General Davis and his estimable wife will take their departure from Portland, and the many friends and pleasant associations which have been formed during the residence of one short year. He will proceed to San Francisco, and report at once to headquarters. For the present General Davis will be stationed either at Fort D. A. Russell or Omaha.

COURT-MARTIAL ADJOURNED.—[illegible] morning at 10.30 o'clock the general Court-Martial convened for the trial of Major F[illegible] ston. Lieutenant F. K. Ward was examined briefly as to the signature and handwriting of the accused, after which the Court adjourned until next Monday morning. This was done at the special request and instance of Major Eggleston, who stated that he was unrepresented by counsel. Captain Jones, who is stationed at Cape Disappointment, had promised to assist the accused in conducting the defense, but that officer could not arrive here until this evening. After privately consulting among themselves for a moment the Board consented to grant the request of the accused, and adjourned the Court to the date mentioned.

FROM A FAR COUNTRY.—We received a few days ago, a letter which has made about half the circle of the globe in coming from the place where written. It is from the town of Oudh in British India, or near the centre of Hindoostan. The letter was written by Lieut. Col. Ralph Ouseley, of the Bengal Staff Corps, on the 2d of July, mailed at Bombay on the 10th, remailed in London, Eng., Aug. 11th, stamped "British transit," at New York, Aug. 22d, and reached Portland, Sept. 1st. The writer has for some time been a subscriber to the OREGONIAN, and desires to continue his subscription, as he may be soon [illegible] settling in Oregon some day, and wants to keep posted in regard to matters here.

A MODEL FARM.—Mr. A. M. Waddell, manager of the Broadcast farm, near Amity, Yamhill county, informs us that on the 24th of August, 1,265 bushels of oats were threshed on that farm in 8 hours. The yield of the farm the present year was 65 bushels to the acre, the land being ploughed only 3 inches deep. The farm contains 2,400 acres. This year 600 acres have been put in grain. Two years ago only 160 acres were in cultivation. Mr. Waddell has increased the cultivated land to 1,000 acres, and put on it about 16 miles of fencing. A grain warehouse is being erected on the farm to hold the yield of the year, which is estimated at 18,000 bushels in wheat and oats.

FATHER BUCHARD, S. J.—Concerning this eloquent lecturer, who [illegible] some time ago, the Sentinel says: This eminent missionary has recently been giving missions at San Mateo and Redwood, near San Francisco, and unusual success has marked his eloquence and his efforts. When in San Francisco, recently we had the pleasure of meeting Father Buchard, whose numerous friends in the Northwest will learn with pleasure that he enjoys excellent health notwithstanding his almost constant occupation in the missionary field.

SALE OF SEATS.—To-morrow seats in the Synagogue Ahavi Shalome and Beth Israel will be sold. The sales take place in the afternoon, as will be seen by announcement elsewhere.

CITY.

THE BARK RANGOLINO.—This vessel a British bark of about 400 tons register arrived at this port this morning ninety six days out from Montevideo Her master, Capt A Hunter, informs us that almost during her entire voyage she had rough weather, encountering some severe gales and meeting strong head winds for weeks in succession In the latitude of the tropics the weather was exceedingly warm and some sickness occurred on board but the vessel finally reached the mouth of the Columbia in safety where she was detained only a few hours before she was towed inside On Thursday she was taken in tow by the tug C J Brenham at Astoria and under the piloting of Capt Snow proceeded up the river Capt Hunter being wearied with his long voyage and having been assured that the passage up the river was one which could be made with safety in the night time, retired to his room about 8 o clock in the evening to obtain a little rest, leaving a man on the lookout and the pilot on the ship s house At five minutes before ten he felt the ship strike something very heavily, and running forward saw that she had run her bow into the wharf at Rainier tearing the wharf and buildings somewhat, and carrying the vessel's jib-boom forward rigging, and rails and a portion of her bulwarks, all of which damage will cost several hundred dollars to repair How the accident happened, we were unable to learn definitely as the Captain informs us that the weather was clear the tug and vessel steering well and the night not so dark but that the buoys in the river could be plainly seen from the ship s deck If our information be correct those in command at the time must have been asleep

RUN INTO.—A piece of careless and reprehensible driving took place yesterday which came near resulting seriously A large and heavily loaded wagon drawn by a span of horses, and driven by a man from the country collided in a violent manner with a fine carriage belonging to the Oregon Hack and Dray Company The hack was moving along one street and the farmer's team was being driven down an intersecting one One side of the hack was struck with the tongue of the wagon and badly smashed up So violent was the collision that the hack driver was thrown to the ground Without paying any particular attention to the mischief he had done the wagoner turned his horses heads in another direction and drove off rapidly There was no shadow of excuse for the collision and it can be attributed to the drunkenness of the driver, who was so intoxicated at the time that he scarcely knew what he was doing As soon as the hack driver could regain his feet and recover from the shock, he called a police man and sent for the careless driver with a vengeance But the fellow was not too drunk to make good his escape—for the present He is known, however, and will probably be taken on the wing ere long One hundred dollars at the least will be required to make good the damage done the hack

STARTED EASTWARD.—Rev B W Morris Bishop of this Diocese, accompanied by Rev C R Bonnell, started overland yesterday, en route for the East At Kelseyville the Bishop will officiate at the Episcopal Church to morrow On reaching the railroad in California, these ministerial gentlemen will push on with all haste to Salt Lake, at which point they intend to remain a short time Both these gentlemen go East on important business connected with the Church Rev. Mr. Bonnell is a Clerical Delegate from this Diocese to attend the General Convention which will meet at New York on the 7th of October The presence of Bishop Morris is also required, he being a member of that body Both of these gentlemen will return before the ... GONE OVERLAND.—General Jeff C Davis did not leave on the last steamer for San Francisco, en route for the post assigned him as was expected and announced. He was not able to conclude the necessary arrangements in time to take the steamer Besides the General and his wife do not admire traveling over Neptune's dominions, and for that reason if for no other, have concluded to go overland to San Francisco To-day General Davis and his amiable wife will take their departure from Portland, and the many friends and pleasant associations which have been formed during the ... of one short year He will proceed to San Francisco, and report at once to headquarters. For the present General Davis will be stationed either at Fort D A Russell or Omaha

COURT MARTIAL ADJOURNED.—Yesterday morning at 10:30 o'clock the general Court Martial convened for the trial of Major Eggleston Lieutenant F K Ward was examined ... as to the signature and handwriting of the ..., after which the Court adjourned until next Monday morning This was done at the special request and instance of Major Eggleston who stated that he was unrepresented by counsel. Captain Jones, who is stationed at Cape Disappointment, had promised to assist the ... in conducting the defense but that officer could not arrive here until this evening After privately consulting among themselves for a moment the Board decided to grant the request of the accused, and adjourned the Court to the date mentioned.

FROM A FAR COUNTRY.—We received a few days ago, a letter which has made about half the circle of the globe in coming from the place where written. It is from the town of Oudh in British India, or near the centre of Hindostan The letter was written by Lieut Col Ralph Onseley, of the Bengal Staff Corps on the 2d of July mailed at Bombay on the 10th, ... at London, Eng Aug 11th stamped 'British transit," at New York Aug 22d, and reached Portland, Sept 1st The writer has for some time been a subscriber to the OREGONIAN, and desires to continue his ... as he says he contemplates settling in Oregon some day and wants to keep posted in regard to matters here

A MODEL FARM.—Mr A M Waddell manager of the Broadmead farm near Amity Yamhill county informs us that on the 24th of August, 1 265 bushels of oats were threshed on this farm in 6½ hours. The yield of the farm this present year was 65 bushels to the acre, the land being ploughed only 3 inches deep The farm contains 2,400 acres This year 1000 acres have been put in grain Two years ago, only 160 acres were in cultivation Mr Waddell has increased the cultivated land to 1,000 acres and put on it about 16 miles of fencing. A grain warehouse is being erected on the farm to hold the yield of the year which is estimated at 18 000 bushels in wheat and oats

FATHER BUCHARD S J.—Concerning this eloquent ..., who visited Portland some time ago the Sentinel says This eminent missionary has recently been giving missions at San Mateo and Redwood near San Francisco, and unusual success has marked his eloquence and his efforts When in San Francisco recently we had the pleasure of meeting Father Buchard whose numerous friends in the Northwest will learn with pleasure that he enjoys excellent health notwithstanding his almost constant occupation in the missionary field

FASHION NOTES.

Sashes of several colors are new

It costs $3,000 to dress a fashionable woman at Saratoga

There is quite an exhibition of Swiss jewelry this season

The Saratoga wriggle is the latest fashionable absurdity adopted by the girl of the period

The silk evening dresses are of different color from the waist and correspond with the complexion

A lady at Saratoga wears a Roman breast plate of emeralds and diamonds, purchased at London for $12 000

Large sun hats trimmed with white tulle are quite the thing among fashionable young ladies at the sea side

The seaside sunshade is of pongee with deep silk fringe all around, and stick out of the top like a flag staff

White mull, striped with black velvet forms a very beautiful dress for evening wear, and is extremely stylish withal

Ultra fashionable demoiselles have strings to their Oxford ties the color of the sash ribbon they wear We've seen 'em

Chinese jewelry and ornaments for the person of all kinds will be very fashionable next winter—say those who know

Some of the prettiest of the afternoon dresses are of striped organdie trimmed with narrow black velvet and lace

Grenadine walking dresses with alternate stripes of silk and beads lengthwise, are among the handsomest of the season

They are now wearing the Rubagas hat caught directly up in front with a large bow of bright colored ribbon or velvet

Very pretty knap acks for ladies are shown for mountain perambulations They are of Russian leather handsomely mounted

Double faced sashes are something new They are lined upon both sides and upon turning one can have a new color to edify the natives with They are, of course imported

One of the fashionable shoes of the period buttons to the toe and has peculiar embroidery on the sides They are of black kid scalloped at the ankle, and have moderately high heels

A mermaid on exhibition at the Museum is from the private collection of Dr I A Davenport

Passing down First street drop into O Brien s and try those new brands of cigars

Kohn s clerks were busy yesterday in arranging the new stock of Boys' apparel In the new display fond parents can find anything to fit their little boys—be they young or old In addition to the above a fine assortment of Gents shirts Furnishing Goods etc have been opened Mr Kohn is making some very fine selections during his stay in San Francisco Call to day and you will find everything as stated

FIRST OF THE SEASON.—Last week Messrs Beck & Waldman opened the first lot of Fall Styles in Clothing The purchase was made by Mr Beck while in San Francisco and he has certainly made a most excellent selection The styles are new and will find a ready sale Beck & Waldman are making a specialty of Boys Clothing and fond parents should note this when they are out buying clothing for their darlings Now is the time Prices low goods to suit all classes Call and examine No trouble to show goods

Brown's Bronchial Troches, for Pulmonary and Asthmatic Disorders have proved their efficacy by a test of many years and have received testimonials from eminent men who have used them

The first act Napoleon the 3d did before the decisive battle which secured Turkish Independence from Russian encroachment was to have his army well and generously fed They were then marched to victory When the stomach is all right one feels like a man The use of PLANTATION BITTERS has wrought such wonderful cures that the sales have increased to six million bottles per year and everywhere it retains its popularity

Missouri.—It is a little singular that this State which bore such an important part in the national controversy which resulted in our civil war and the extinguishment of slavery, in the United States should be the birth place of the great national remedy known as the MEXICAN MUSTANG LINIMENT This embrocation produced national discussion and has extinguished, in all who use it the pains and agonies to which the human and brute creation are subject For diseases about horses and cattle it was the universal remedy throughout the Western and Southern States and it has now reached the entire country where it is as popular as it is in those States All druggists keep it

Rejuvenated For nearly a quarter of a century Lyon s Kathairon has been winning its way into popularity It is composed of ingredients which add strength and vitality to the hair producing ducts and its history may be summed up in Caesar s expression when he crossed the Rubicon Veni Vidi Vici I came saw and conquered It took the place of the miserable unguents which had weakened the fibres of hair and clogged their roots, and imparted vigor to the scalp cleanliness to the head and gloss to the locks It retains its place in millions of homes as the great rejuvenator of the hair

"How Can I bring back the days of my power" was once asked by a fading belle Around her once gathered the votaries of fashion Her beauty had died out and she was neglected A friend recommended the use of HAGAN'S MAGNOLIA BALM She tried it and lo! as if by magic as if Aladdin s lamp had transformed her she regained her healthy complexion and was again ... admiring beaux She had grown wiser and less coquettish and now she is happily the beloved center of a family group

HOW MANY LITTLE SUFFERERS are wasting away from the effects of Cholera Infantum or Summer complaint And yet a remedy sure prompt and thorough readily administered and entirely safe with reputation established by its merit and maintained over the whole country for a series of years as a standard curative for Cramps, Diarrhœa Cholera Morbus and all Diseases of the Bowels can be readily obtained in Dr Jayne's Carminative Balsam Why not give it a trial?

ANTICIPATION

I'll take the orchard path, she said
Speaking lowly, smiling slowly
The brook was dried within its bed
The hot sun flung a flame of red
Low in the West as forth she sped

Across the dried brook course she went
Singing lowly, smiling slowly,
She scarcely saw the sun that spent
Its fiery force in swift descent—
She never saw the wheat was bent

The grasses parched, the blossoms died
Singing lowly, smiling slowly
Her eyes amidst the drouth espied
A summer pleasance far and wide
With roses and sweet violets pied

II.

DISAPPOINTMENT

But homeward coming all the way
Sighing lowly, pacing slowly
She knew the bent wheat withering lay
She saw the blossoms dry decay
She missed the little brooklet's play

A breeze had sprung from out the South
But sighing lowly, pacing slowly,
She only felt the burning drouth
Her eyes were hot and parched her mouth
Yet sweet the wind blew from the South!

And when the wind brought welcome rain
Still sighing lowly, pacing slowly,
She never saw the lifting grain
But only—a lone orchard lane
Where she had waited all in vain

—Nora Perry in Scribner's for September

WHO ROBBED MADAME.

I had waited but a few minutes when she entered

The tasteful cap surmounting the brown lock clustering in a pretty confusion of short curls about her forehead proclaimed her no longer young though the fair blooming face and shapely form were far more suggestive of youth than of old age Altogether Madame Leroux was a lady of most attractive appearance

'Detective Ashton' I responded hastily drawing forward a chair

She sank into it, and by a silent gesture invited me to be seated Presently she murmured in a low [illegible] "I am in great distress My—" and she again paused, overcome by her emotion

I waited a minute in expectant silence and then said

"A case of robbery I understand Madame Permit me to ask whether your servants are entirely honest?

"Entirely," she answered, brokenly. They have served me for twenty years"

'And your pupils?

'Not a shadow of suspicion may touch them'

And the resident teachers?' She gasped once or [illegible], and [illegible] with a mighty effort, answered, tremulously

Pardon my agitation, I am worn with trouble and anxiety adding presently in more even tones, I will tell you about it Monsieur My school is, as you doubtless know from report, the best, and, consequently, the most flourishing in the city I take much money, and often keep large sums by me This is my private business room and in yonder cabinet I store my surplus funds'

'A rather unsafe place' I commented

Not at all, Monsieur,' she answered decidedly, "It is furnished with a secret receptacle Discover it if you can" And, rising she led the way to the cabinet and threw open the desk

But I exhausted my wits to no purpose Madame looked on in silence till I drew back and folded my arms She then quietly asked

You would not suspect the fact I have stated?"

If the secret compartment is here, most certainly not"

It is here," she replied, briefly and emphatically as she closed the desk

How many times have you been robbed?

'Nightly for the past week, she answered excitedly. A large amount was [illegible] the first night, but since then only a few counterfeits which I deposited in the hope of detecting the thief without assistance.'

'Has any one under your roof a knowledge of the secret of the cabinet?' I inquired after a little interval of silence "But one!" she cried bursting into tears, and wringing her hands in an agony of distress

I again deliberated a moment, and then said, firmly

Madame, I have not a doubt that I can in time clear up this matter without assistance But it is no less certain that perfect candor on your part will aid me

It was some minutes before she could compose herself sufficiently to answer When she did, it was in heart-broken tones

Your are right Monsieur, I must tell you My suspicions point to one who has for years been my all [illegible] Mademoiselle, de Antoinette de Gray. Mademoiselle de Gray has been my protege [illegible] of her parents which [illegible] an infant. In her I [illegible] the most unlimited [illegible] I am distracted with doubts it is impossible to silence

But Monsieur I have not sent for you to unravel this web of mystery with any intention of giving publicity to the crime Heaven knows I only desire to learn the truth for her own dear sake I would not wrong the innocent even in thought the guilty I would unceasingly labor to restore'

Then with a sudden burst of grief she exclaimed

My poor Antoinette' She is so young' so winning' and so beautiful!'

'Does Mademoiselle de Gray know of your suspicions?' I inquired as a deep sob choked her utterance

She does A few hours before I sent for you I told her of my loss, and entreated her to confess and receive my forgiveness'

With what result?'

She gazed at me with startled eyes for a moment, and then in proud, almost scornful accents replied that I above all others, should know whether she was capable of such a deed'

And is she acquainted with the fact of you having secured my services?

"Oh yes Monsieur I hoped it would frighten her into a full confession"

"Your servants?"

They know nothing whatever For Mademoiselle de Gray's sake I have kept these startling robberies a profound secret. After a few minutes serious consideration I said

Madame I will watch here nightly until the mystery is solved." Madame shook her head despondingly

It is quite [illegible] Monsieur. I am no coward, and have already tried that plan, and strange to say my cabinet remained intact both times"

Perhaps Mademoiselle suspected your intentions I replied "This time we must guard against the possibility And now, if you [illegible] I will trouble you for a few more details About what time do these robberies take place?

Always between midnight and daybreak I seldom retire till 12 o'clock and on the night of the first theft it was considerably later I remember distinctly, for by a singular coincidence Mademoiselle and I sat here discussing the possibility of the very event which occurred The recent Madworth robbery had impressed us both deeply, and as I left the room I made Mademoiselle lock the door

Did you lock the other? I asked, indicating one I had noticed a while before

I did not, Monsieur That is only a store closet

It might secrete a burglar, however'

Yes Monsieur, but it did not I was in there a very few minutes before we retired

And the key of the door is here—did Mademoiselle know where you put it?'

Certainly Monsieur

And since that night?

Alas! Monsieur I have hidden my keys in vain'

After some further conversation I took my leave promising to return about midnight I did so Mademoiselle and the servants had retired and as previously arranged Madame answered my light tap herself She ushered me into the private room and soon bade me good night.

After a short absence she returned with a steaming cup of coffee and a plate of Dutch cake

I always take a cup of coffee before retiring she explained,' and thought you might find one acceptable" And with a final good night she left me Feeling both chilled and thirsty, I emptied the cup almost at a draught Then wheeling a chair behind the curtains draping a bay window, I extinguished the light and sat down to await the appearance of the unknown thief

But I saw nothing Just at daybreak Madame softly entered the room and spoke to me I rose unsteadily to my feet and stepped from behind the curtains She gazed at me in surprise for a moment and then smiled a little ironically

Monsieur slept well I perceive

"Yes Madame if well means soundly I replied The coffee was drugged

Drugged' she echoed staggering back a pace or two

Yes Madame Permit me to ask who made it?

Who made it?' she repeated in deep hollow tones Mademoiselle de Gray And—and Monsieur the money is gone

But I I answered with some vexation Mademoiselle of all others, should not have known of my presence here

Ah Monsieur I was most careful returned Madame sorrowfully It is a mystery how she gained her knowledge

'Well Madame' I answered after a few minutes deliberation we will meet Mademoiselle on her own ground Permit her, if you please to prepare another cup of coffee to night She will no doubt count upon its effects And that night I received another steaming cup But it was received only Consequently I was not found napping I had watched patiently for two hours or more when the door softly opened, and a pale slender little old woman, wrapped in a crimson dressing gown, and about whose bare head floated a few scanty gray locks stole noiselessly into the room She carried a bunch of keys and a lighted taper in a small bronze candlestick Closing the door carefully behind her she proceeded at once to the cabinet Can this weird looking woman be Mademoiselle de Gray' I thought, gazing at the singular apparition No It cannot be. Certainly, Mademoiselle is young This might be some old relative or friend of Madame Quickly and noiselessly she approached the cabinet and in a moment it was unlocked and the secret compartment open

After carefully withdrawing the notes deposited there by Madame a few hours previous, she snapped the spring and reclosed the desk. Then turning quickly away she went over to the store closet

I now left my hiding place and cautiously followed When I reached the door she was in the act of removing the false bottom from a large japanned box in one corner Dropping it on the floor beside her she took from the box a roll of notes and after adding the one just stolen, returned the bundle to its place again. Then hastily restoring the box to its former order, she rose and turned away

I stepped back a pace or two with the design of seeing her outside the closet.

In a moment she appeared and confronted me, and for the first time I obtained a fair view of her features. But instead of the horror and dismay which I had been anticipating, I was the one to fall back aghast My outstretched arms dropped powerless as, with swift tread and strong gaze she swept past me and out of the room

"And this is the solution" I muttered drawing a deep breath of relief as the door closed upon her "What will Madame say? Will she readily credit the report I must give?'

Without deciding on the question I dropped on the sofa and made myself comfortable for the remainder of the night As on the previous day, Madame sought me early She looked at me scrutinizingly

Ah' Monsieur has had another good night without the aid of drugs she remarked somewhat tartly

'Yes, Madame, a very good one I replied but I first earned the right' 'Ah!' ejaculated Madame again but this time very tremulously 'Then you have—you—

"Yes Madame I answered, finding she could not finish the sentence And now will you kindly allow me to see Madamoiselle de Gray?

No, Monsieur! no!' she replied with hasty emphasis 'My poor Antoinette has sinned no doubt, but she shall be protected. You shall not see my poor child Monsieur" she concluded passionately. 'Heaven, and I will make a good woman of her yet!"

'My dear Madame, you quite mistake me I answered feelingly "Madamoiselle is innocent' I was hardly prepared for the little Frenchwoman's outburst of joy

"My Antoinette' My pure darling' My white dove' My wronged angel' Sweet heaven, I thank thee'' she cried tearfully

And before I could say any more she had darted from the room In a few minutes she returned, leading a tall, elegant, golden haired girl whose proud eyes glittered with tears This fair vision of youthful beauty left Madame's side and came to me 'I thank you Monsieur,' she said with simple, earnest dignity 'I thank you most truly'

I have done little or nothing to entitle me to your thanks, Mademoiselle,' I smiled in response But have you no desire to learn the name of the guilty party?'

Ah, true! exclaimed Madame 'I forgot all but my infinite joy Tell us Monsieur'

'First Madame I answered 'permit me to restore your stolen money You have your keys, I see will you be kind enough to open the treasury box?'

And hastening to the closet I brought out the japanned box

Madame knelt down and wonderingly turned the key I then lifted the lid and removed the false bottom An astonished exclamation parted Mademoiselle de Gray's lips but Madame leaned over the box like one in a dream, and could not be convinced until the notes were in her hands and counted, that it was no dream at all but a most pleasant reality,

Yes Antoinette' she at last said, rising and casting the notes on the table "every sou of it is here And to think of it being in the old box, Antoinette!' 'Yes, smiled Mademoiselle, with a puzzled expression, but——'

But, interrupted Madame even more vivaciously but who put it into the box?' And she fixed her eyes in eager expectancy on mine

The—the apparition I faltered, 'entered the room between 2 and 3 o'clock and went straight to the cabinet In a few moments the notes were purloined and deposited where you just now found them

'But the secret compartment Monsieur' interrupted Madame, excitedly, was it opened without difficulty?

'Yes, Madame'

'Strange? most strange she ejaculated in perplexed tones, adding the next instant Go on, Monsieur"

That is all, Madame'

Ah! But what did you do Monsieur?' she asked sharply

"Nothing, Madame, but st[illegible] and gaze like an imbecile after the retreating form I had extended my hand to seize'

'Oh' exclaimed Madame in a low awed voice, Was it—you called it an apparition I recollect, Monsieur What—what did it resemble?'

'It was a woman. A small, pallid woman, clad in a trailing crimson robe—

"A crimson robe' echoed the Madame and Mademoiselle, both evidently aghast

Yes and with silvery white hair—"

"White hair!' again exchoed both looking at each other with faces of consternation

Mademoiselle de Gray recovered herself first 'What else Monsieur' she queried impatiently

"Nothing else, Mademoiselle, except that this singular apparition carried a bronze candlestick and yonder bunch of keys Mademoiselle gazed at me a moment in silence and then turning, suddenly flung her arms about the Madame's neck, and kissing her on both cheeks exclaimed between tears and laughter

Oh' you naughty, naughty thief Madame stared from Mademoiselle to me the picture of bewildered dismay then dropping her eyes to the floor she revolved, apparently some perplexing question Presently she looked up

Tell me Antoinette, she muttered, doubtfully "why did you drug Monsieur's coffee?

I' exclaimed Mademoiselle flushing with astonishment, I did it no more than I stole the money I knew not that Monsieur was here, much less that he took coffee But perhaps she roguishly added the next moment, as she again showered kisses on Madame's roseate cheeks but perhaps you can plead guilty' Again bewildered dismay widened Madame's eyes and after a little she faltered

'Oh Antoinette, I—I—yes, I certainly did Monsieur slept well and I slept poorly Yes Monsieur got my powders! I never thought of it till this minute

"What powders' laughed Mademoiselle de Gray

The morphine! exclaimed Madame more composedly I felt sleepless and excited and put it into a cup intending to pour my coffee over it but I must have given the Monsieur the wrong cup

Then suddenly snatching the keys from the table she thrust them into Mademoiselle de Gray's hand exclaiming tearfully

"There! keep them my poor, wronged darling I have played La Sonnambula long enough'

And I looking at Madame's brown curls, roseate skin and faultless figure thought amusedly "What a miracle of French art!

Wheat in Liverpool by mail advices from San Francisco 10s@10s 3d for average California and 11s 6d@11s 3d for club

There seems to be but little more activity in commercial and financial circles locally Fair accommodations are obtainable but a sort of backwardness on the part of business men generally to enter upon trade enterprises which require more capital than they can command without paying the rate now current so that the money market is dull notwithstanding the liberal supply of available funds at hand and much of which is seeking investment

The London papers of August 10th say that in consequence of the continued withdrawals of gold from Paris and a growing pressure for advance at the Bank of England the directors raised the rate of discount from 3 per cent to 4 The weekly return issued in the afternoon of the same day showed that they had no alternative as the total reserve had fallen off more than a million and a half to £9,908,000 The loss in the bullion was altogether £888,000, only £305,000 of which is accounted for by the declared exports the demands on the country circulation absorbing the balance It is the concurrent influence of the external gold drain and the provincial requirement which have matured somewhat sooner than usual that has rendered necessary action which would otherwise have been precipitate The change in the rate now made is the eighth since the 1st of January but the general steadiness of the market as compared with the corresponding period of 1873, has been striking. This year the extremes have been 4 and 2½ per cent down to the same date last year there had been thirteen alterations which ranged between 7 per cent and 3 per cent

The Hop Interests.

We have frequently alluded to the prospects for making the raising of the above product an important one of the industries on this northwest coast Those who have undertaken it in our State and in Western Washington Territory have heretofore been quite successful both in producing and in finding remunerative sale Some recent advices from California have indicated that prices were declining but from England comes the news of very inferior crops in almost all the hop-growing districts. The Mark Lane Express of the 10th ult says We have to report an extremely active market with an advance of 8s to 10s per cwt on all classes of the last growth Choice hops are very scarce being reserved by holders for extreme rates The plantation reports are most unfavorable in many districts where the hops are in burr the vine does not possess the strength to push it into hops and it is feared by many the crop will be much shorter than is at present anticipated Yearlings and olds are in good demand Continental advices are more unfavorable

English Crops.

Captain Holman of the W I T Co has laid on our table the Mark Lane Express of London dated August 10th which gives very full reports of the condition of all the growing crops in England and on the continent up to that date We presume that its reports are as reliable as can possibly be obtained the Express being considered the leading authority on all questions of this character As to the wheat crops the number before us says

The new wheat brought as yet to market shows nothing to indicate more than an average quality and growth some is very troughy and thin showing premature ripeness to the extent perhaps of a fortnight but some samples are very good If without any of the marked superiority of 1868 A contemporary from the accounts furnished hitherto estimates the yield as two-thirds above an average and one third about an average or something below it As thrashing proceeds we shall know more about it; but after the severe frosts of June it is almost marvelous if it comes so fair as this would show In a dry season how low a temperature may be borne without much danger As to spring corn barley decidedly stands first, and some well farmed and favorable soils will furnish fine samples with a fair yield but the light lands for all descriptions of corn will go short and oats be found at the bottom of the list though some very fine samples will appear We have reason therefore to be thankful that our fears respecting the drought and frost have been over wrought and that any serious deficiency will only be felt in the hay crops and roots. In France there is great diversity according to soil situation and culture the harvest there having been threatened or impeded by the rains although occasionally samples of wheat of great weight will be forthcoming whatever be the general yield But forage there has suffered more than here as well as the outcrop and the latter corn has been rising in the midst of a general decline as not only is this so in France, but in Belgium and some parts of Germany Thus with spring corn and forage dear we do not see how wheat can be much depressed The crop of winter wheat also is considered fine in the United States, but that of spring growth is deemed inferior and this latter being the greater growth of the two sorts by far the report seems unfavorable As to Hungary her best new wheat has now come down to 52s, but shippers there are aware it is yet too high to meet our markets and we think matters are coming to this point—that with favorable weather to complete the European harvest we may have rates somewhat lower but not much reduced

The arrivals off the coast since 1st July had been 46 cargoes of which 6 cargoes were wheat, 19 maize 1 rye and 1 oats

Business at London was reported as follows for the day Wheat 23 cargoes in all viz red Spanish 45s 6d white 46s 6d Ghirka 45s spring 46 @48s Milwaukie 47@48s 6d Minnesota 48s 9d white Canada an afloat Oregon 51s maize 2 cargoes 31s 6d@31s 6d barley 9 cargoes 25s 6d@34s, rye 3 cargoes 31s 6d

The same paper goes on to say that harvesting and thrashing of wheat in the North and Normandy have proceeded without any stoppage from the weather which has been generally fine dry and without violent heat The proofs of the progress made in the North during the week are the abundant supplies announced from correspondents at Lisle Montvilliers and Rouen and the sensible decline effected at Lisle, 1 fr to 1 fr 50c Montvilliers 1 fr 50c to 2 fr and at Rouen 4 fr 50c to 4 fr 75c per 100 kilogrammes They still express themselves satisfied with the returns and quality

In summing up the general opinion on the crop prospects the editor says

Some returns collected a few weeks since have gone to show that the wheats in England are very generally above the average, although actual injury into the crop during the last few days has tended in some districts to qualify such an opinion more particularly down eastward Thus our Essex county report as given in this number states that the wheat crop has probably been over-estimated as the ears will not bear close examination at least those of white varieties grown in this county We have similar advices from further on in Suffolk and Norfolk as we are ready to admit that we are not prepared to rate the wheat crop so generally good or rather at so much above an average as up to the time of cutting had been calculated The ears are occasionally only half set, and once more people may have been deceived by outward appearances. As we wrote just a month since, the cutting alone can tell what effect the frost have had

Miscellaneous

The steamer Alexander belonging to the Alaska Commercial Company has arrived at San Francisco from Alaska with 5 500 seal skins This cargo was the second received in August and the skins received by both vessels aggregate some $1 000 000 in value No more are expected this season

It is estimated that England will require 90 000 000 bushels foreign wheat during the year ending September 1 1875 Of this quantity California can supply some 20 000 000 bushels and Oregon about 3 000 000 bushels more During the year 1873 Great Britain imported the equivalent of 10 000 000 bushels of wheat including flour

Seventy three cents per bushel is the price paid for wheat delivered on the cars at Tangent

The Record is informed that East of the Mountains the season has been so dry that wheat has not generally proved a good crop It is estimated by those who ought to know that there will not be over half as much raised east of the Cascades in the Columbia river country as was raised last year one reason for which is that many farmers have cut their wheat for hay believing it worth more to them thus than when regularly harvested

The Oswego Iron Works are occasionally making shipments of pig iron to San Francisco where it finds ready sale at the highest rates paid for English brands We regard these works as one of the most important enterprises in our State

We learn that the vessels now here and not under charter have been offered 60s per ton to Liverpool direct but as yet they decline to accept the rates.
